

Construction and the Built Environment HTQ

Our program offers a variety of specialised units to cater to each student's unique interests and future career plans. These units prioritise the development of both employability skills and foundational knowledge, fostering confidence in a range of functions. Additionally, we equip our students with an understanding of culturally diverse organisations, cross-cultural issues, and diversity and values. This allows for flexible study options that meet local and specialised needs.

These qualifications are divided into sector-specific categories, such as:

Construction management
Architectural technology
Modern methods of construction.

The pathways are very similar to the previously offered BTEC high national certificate and are closely aligned. The higher national qualification framework provides students with the necessary skills and competence for the workplace or further higher education. The HTQs are divided into Core and Specialist units, similar to the previous higher national certificate, and are assessed through a number of assignments.

Many of our former students have attended prestigious universities, including the University of West England and Gloucestershire University, where they have pursued studies in Quantity Surveying, Management, and Architecture. We have earned the trust of esteemed companies such as EG Carters, Bloorhomes, and Robert Limerick.
